

This is an aerial view of the lot. This picture is pre-construction.

This looks west on Bitterroot Drive. You can see where the driveway and road come together.

The driveway apron. You can see the driveway 'spur' that branches to the left and goes in front of the home.

The top photo is the driveway spur. Snow storage at the end of the spur.

The bottom left shows snow storage area on the south and west side of driveway area. The small trees across the driveway were added to beautify the areas and create more privacy for neighbors. This shows the view looking west from our home.

The bottom right is another view of the snow storage area on the south and west sides of the driveway area. It is looking south from the driveway.
